Glassware & Bar Accessories

Dean leans back, stirs his drink and surveys the room: Sammy is chatting up the sequined girl while he shakes up his green concoction into something palatable. Louie wheezes a laugh as he sips Chianti, Frank tells Peggy she might as well just fold and then reaches over the table for an ice cube. It clinks against the glass as it drops in. For Dean, each sound, color and smell defines one word: FRIENDS. Morning will come soon, so they must enjoy every second. Someone turns up the music, and Louie grabs the sequined girl for a swing around the room. Frank pours himself another one, hums not so quietly to himself and goes all in. He's clearly bluffing....

Historic Silver Dollars

*One free weekend with nothing planned and my mind starts to whir from the boredom. I think of things that can occupy my time: But nothing seems satisfying. Maybe I'll take a walk to figure out how I want to spend my weekend. I open the door, feel the dry heat on my skin, and turn down a path I've never taken before.
